

German Society of Sport Science

www.sportscience.de

The German Society of Sport Science (Deutsche Vereinigung für Sportwissenschaft), a federation of sport scientists active in teaching, research or practice, was founded in Munich in 1976. Its main office is located in Hamburg.

The DVS has about 1000 members and is the central representation of sport science in Germany. It is organized in different sections and committees (s. figure, 2017).

Goals and Activities

- Encouraging and supporting research in sport science
- Insuring good scientific practices
- Initiating and organizing scientific communication
- Position stands regarding academic study or teaching
- Supporting personnel development
- Promote and support young academics in sport science
- National and international representation of sport science
- Biannual conference (DVS "Hochschultag") as well as scientific conferences hosted by sections and committees
- Advising the German Olympic Federation (DOSB) and other organizations in relevant fields of competitive sports, amateur/leisure sports and school sports
- Publishing a scientific series with currently more than 260 volumes (FELDHAUS Publishing Company)
- Publishing the journal "German Journal of Exercise and Sport Research" (Springer Publishing Company) together with the German Olympic Federation (DOSB) and the Federal Institute for Sport Science (BISp)

Co-operation Partners

The DVS co-operates with international and national organizations, agencies, sport federations and federal institutions.

Membership

The DVS addresses individuals and institutions interested in the questions and development of sport science.

Membership Fee

The membership fee is 95 € per year. Part time workers, trainees, retirees, students and unemployed can apply for a reduced fee.

The membership application can be obtained directly from the business office and be downloaded from the website.

Advantages of Membership

- Actively forming and shaping opinions on sport, scientific and political issues
- Contact with sports scientists in Germany
- Benefits when attending congresses, symposia, etc.
- Reduced prices for the books of the scientific series of the DVS
- Special price for subscription of the journal "GJESR"

Bundesinstitut
für Sportwissenschaft

Deutsche Vereinigung für Sportwissenschaft e. V. (DVS) Business Office

P.O. Box 73 02 29 · 22122 Hamburg · Germany
Tel.: +49 40/67941212 · Fax: +49 40/67941213
E-Mail: info@sportscience.de · www.sportscience.de